

Rules for Basic Bitches:

To begin, all players should draw seven white phrase cards. Pick a queen amongst you to draw one pink card. Your highness should then read the pink question card aloud. All other players should choose one fierce white card to answer the question or fill in the blank.

After shuffling the white response cards, the queen should reread the pink card with each response.

However she wishes, the queen should choose a winning response. To complete the round, give the pink question card to the winner. To proceed to the next round, ensure everyone has seven white cards and select a new queen.

Coming out on top:

First one to pull out with six pink cards wins!

Just the tips:

Personal flair: When queen, be sure to read cards in your own style!

Make it twerk: Change the verb tense (for example, be or being) in order to make your response twerk with the question card.

Bottoms first: When playing more than one card, place the card you wish to be read first on bottom, and the card you wish to be read last on top.
